

Men's Evening Lecture and Participation

with Ariel Daunay

Come and ask what you have always wanted to ask a woman about women.

This evening we will explore what the women in your lives are really looking for from you, as her chosen man, both intimately, and in day-to-day relationship. What you may presume about her is mostly far from the truth.

We will begin with a bodily practice that will set the tone for this evening's consideration together.

Come in loose and comfortable clothing and bring all of your questions.

Date: Tuesday, October 28th 18 pm – 10 pm

Ariel Daunay is gifted in the shadow aspects of love. She has dedicated her life to unfolding the essence of being a woman through actively living and practicing feminine principles in relationship and community. For over 20 years, she has practiced teaching yoga as an intimate practice, sexuality as a gift, and sacred theater as a means to unravel what we fear about ourselves, serving both men and women into the mystery and discipline of love. Ariel has studied ontology of language with Julio Ollila; trained with Richard Strozzi Heckler in somatic bodywork; studied sacred theater with Paul Ortel; and studied at the yoga school of K. Pattabhi Jois in India. She currently assists and travels with teacher and author David Deida.
